Box No. V Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

	Claims	_____	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims	1-10	YES

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

Most relevant document cited in the International Search Report:

D1: WO 00/71227 A1

D1 discloses a user-activated domestic water treatment unit (refer to page 5, lines 1-2, page 8, line 10 - page 12, line 9 and fig. 1). The unit has an inlet (30), an outlet fixture (24), connections from inlet to outlet and water treatment equipment including an ultraviolet lamp (78). It also comprises a discharge valve in fluid connection with the outlet fixture (page 15, line 5), which valve is the closest correspondence to the flow regulator of the present invention.

According to D1, the UV lamp requires an electronic ballast to operate. An electrical switch is used for energizing the ballast, which switch can be either (refer to page 15, lines 8-14)

1. manually actuated
2. automatically actuated upon switching the water discharge valve open, or
3. automatically actuated by a flow sensor.

The apparatus disclosed in D1 operated according to the second alternative above is considered to be the most relevant prior art.

The invention according to claim 1 has three distinguishing features as compared to what is disclosed in D1:

.../...

Supplemental Box

In case the space in any of the preceding boxes is not sufficient.

Continuation of: BOX V

1. the flow regulator is electrically controlled and connected to a voltage source via an electrical supply lead,
2. the automatic lighting up of the UV light source, is accomplished by means for detecting a supply current passing through the supply lead when the regulator is activated, and
3. the flow regulator is arranged upstream of the liquid purifier.

The claimed invention is thus novel.

An effect of feature 2 above is that a minimum of adaptations are required at installation of a liquid purifier into an already existing water supply system with an electrically controlled flow regulator. Feature 3 makes it possible to use only one electrically controlled flow regulator for the entire water supply system, even if the system comprises several branches with respective tapping points.

Although a person skilled in the art might consider using an electrically controlled discharge valve in D1, there are no detailed instructions in D1 on how to design the system for the automatic actuation of the UV lamp. But most important: there are no indications in the prior art that would make him modify the apparatus by arranging the discharge valve upstream of the liquid purifier.

Therefore, the invention according to claim 1 and claims dependent thereupon is considered to involve an inventive step.

The claimed invention is also considered to be industrially applicable.
